COMPLETE TO 1901.

2 vols., 8vo. Sheep, $12.00 net.

Sent prepaid by express or mail on receipt of $12.50.

The great extension of the field which the writ of injunction is to cover has necessitated an entirely new edition of Mr. Spelling's admirable work. The subject has been revised, enlarged, and brought down to date by the author, and his treatise is now more complete and valuable than ever before.

In no book are Extraordinary Remedies treated more thoroughly, their uses better defined, and the way of obtaining the writs and privileges they confer more clearly stated.

The Liability of Municipal Corporations for Tort,

Treating fully Municipal Liability for Negligence.

By

Waterman L. Williams, A.B., LL.B.

Author of "Statutory Torts in Massachusetts."

One Vol., 8vo. Sheep, Price, $3.50 net.

A New Book of vital importance to City Solicitors and all Lawyers either prosecuting or defending suits against Municipalities for Tort and Negligence.

Mr. WILLIAMS discusses

Public Corporations like Cities, Boroughs, and Villages, and Quasi Corporations like Counties, Townships, and School Districts, which by their voluntary acts, have become more than mere territorial divisions; their Public Duties; their duties of a Private Nature, and their Executory Duties.

EXAMINATIONS IN LAW,

CONSISTING OF

PRACTICAL PROBLEMS AND CASES,

COMPILED FROM PAPERS CONTRIBUTED BY VARIOUS LAW SCHOOLS.

By JOHN H. WIGMORE,

Professor of Law in Northwestern University.

THIS volume contains a collection of examination papers, covering the last twenty-five years, selected from a large number contributed for the purpose by nearly a dozen of the leading law schools of the country, and including also specimens from Oxford and Cambridge in England. The volume numbers 659 pages, and contains 376 papers in all, or nearly 4,000 problems. They are arranged under the following heads, comprising all the subjects nowadays set for examination, except a few in local use only :—

Agency,	Constitutional Law,	Conflict of Laws,
Contracts,	Bailments and Carriers,	Corporations,
Damages,	Domestic Relations,	Criminal Law,
Equity,	Negotiable Instruments,	Partnership,
Evidence,	Pleading at Common Law,	Mortgages,
Persons,	Property (Real and Personal),	Quasi-Contract,
Torts,	Wills and Administration,	Suretyship,
Trusts,	Federal Jurisdiction and Procedure,	Sales.

The material in these papers consists entirely of problems in the form of hypothetical cases. This method of examination is now generally recognized as being the fairest and most practical. It is exclusively used in many law schools, and is rapidly coming into use in others. It is also employed by the State Boards of Bar Examiners in Massachusetts and New York, as well as, to some extent, in Illinois and elsewhere, and will doubtless before long come into general use at bar examinations.
